SPEAKER DEPICTS
MODERN NORWAYBen Blessum Addresses Students at December
ConvocationCOUNTRY IS CALLED LAND OF PARADOXESEconomic and Political Conditions at Present Are Discussed

Speaking on the modern political and economic conditions of Norway, Ben Blessum, head of the Norwegian railways in the United States, addressed students of the university at their December convocation at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in Memorial hall. Mr. Blessum, a native of Norway, was brought to the university as the concluding speaker on the fall program of Pan Politikon.

Dividing his address into four main approaches to conditions in Norway, Mr. Blessum first fixed firmly for his audience the location and extensiveness of the country in which he was born. The students were reminded that the country, with its 12,000 miles of coastline, has a more scattered population and greater distances within its bounds than any other European country except Russia. With more than half of its area lighted by the midnight sun, Norway consists of large portions of high mountain ranges, numerous rivers and lakes, many rich virgin forests, and land of which only four per cent is suitable for cultivation.

The country of Norway is a land of paradoxes, Mr. Blessum said, and he illustrated some of the seemingly impossible things existing there. The northern tip, 1200 miles nearer the pole than the southern portion, has higher temperature throughout the year than the southern section. Similarly, the speaker explained that the growth of grass during the length of one day may be measured as a result of the effect of constant sunlight. Also, the waters of the fjords, fed by streams of mountain glaciers, are much warmer than the ocean only a few miles off the coast.

In education and politics, the visitor showed the progressiveness of the Norwegian people. Even the Laps, the migratory Mongolian people of the northernmost part, have their migratory school which follow the herds and give instruction to the Lap children. In their political relations, the Norwegian people have a representative government in line with their highly individualistic and independent natures. In the composition of the governing bodies, each group having more than four per cent of the voting strength of the country is represented in that body in proportion to its strength.

Interesting also to note, according to Mr. Blessum, is the maritime prowess of the inhabitants, who rank fourth among the mercantile powers of Europe. With Norwegian inventiveness and desire to try out schemes, Mr. Blessum told of the development by his countrymen of the whaling industry and of the new methods and improved equipment which are largely responsible for the production of two-thirds of the world's whale oil supply by Norway.

Mr. Blessum concluded his address by stating various facts concerning the power development and railway construction problems peculiar to his country, and extended an invitation to members of his audience to visit Norway during their spare time and to enjoy the many features that Norway offers its visitors. Ben Blessum, who has been in America for several years, is holder of the order of Saint Olav, received for services to his native country.

zations Are Discussed
By Group

A meeting of the officers of the various organizations in the College of Agriculture was held at 11 o'clock Thursday morning in the office of Dean Thomas Cooper, with Dean Cooper presiding. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss all problems which confront the organizations.

One of the principal subjects of discussion concerned the Agriculture College dinner, sponsored by the agriculture society, which will be held some time in January. It was decided that a calendar of meetings for the next semester should be established.

Those present at the meeting were: Dean Cooper; L. J. Horlacher, assistant to the dean; Fred Hafer, president of Agriculture society and the university 4-H club; W. E. Florence, president of Alpha Zeta; Scott McClain, president of Block and Bridge; O. J. Price, president of the university scholarship club; Sue Dickens, president of Phi Upsilon Omicron; and Laura Moores, vice-president of Phi Upsilon Omicron.

The next meeting will be held about the middle of January.

Christmas Holidays
Begin December 18Council Has Not Considered Making Changes
in Plans

At 12 o'clock Friday, December 18, 1931, the university will don its gayest garb, lock the front door, put the key in the mailbox, and away for the Christmas holidays. Sixteen days later at 8 o'clock Monday morning, January 4, 1932, it will resume its work clothes, take up its tools and settle back into the daily grind.

This annual break in the routine of scholarly pursuits was arranged by the university council last spring when it was planning the calendar for the term of 1931-32. Contrary to rumor, the council had never considered changing the plans. Incidentally, this Christmas vacation will be the longest to be enjoyed by the students and staff of the university in recent years.

Members of Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity, will entertain in the Alumni gymnasium from 4 to 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon with the first cadet hop of the annual series. Five of these entertainments will be given during the school year.

Fall pledging exercises will be held at the dance Saturday afternoon and five seniors will be chosen for initiation into the fraternity. The exercises will be conducted by Capt. Clyde Grady, faculty advisor and liaison officer, and Clarence Yeager, president of the organization. The spring pledging exercises will be held at the military ball which will be given in February. At that time juniors in the R. O. T. C. will be pledged.

Pledges of Scabbard and Blade are chosen from the outstanding members of R. O. T. C., and membership requirements are based on character, proficiency in military science, and general high standing. The purpose of the organization is to defend American traditions and promote the interests of R. O. T. C. training, to preserve and develop the essential qualities of good and efficient officers and to spread intelligent information concerning the military requirements of the country.

The Blue and White orchestra has been engaged to furnish music for the affair, and tickets have been on sale by members of the organization for the last two weeks. The cadet hops have been given every year since the installation of Scabbard and Blade on the university campus in 1923, when the national organization granted a petition made by upperclassmen in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

Seven of last year's varsity squad who will participate in this year's matches are: O. W. Chinn, I. C. Evans, William Eades, W. E. Florence, S. P. Musselman, M. C. Wachs, and Lewis Payton.

Groups Will Check
Pictures in Annual

In an attempt to prevent the appearance of slips and mistakes in the publication of the Kentuckian, a new policy is being inaugurated by the editorial staff, according to a statement issued by I. C. Evans, assistant editor of the Kentuckian.

Before the publication is sent to the printers, a representative of each organization which will have a page in the annual, will be notified to come to the Kentuckian office and to check his page for corrections. When the galley proof is returned from the printers, a representative again will check the page for mistakes other than those corrected in copy-reading.

O. L. "Bud" Davidson, Evansville, Ind., sophomore in the College of Education and a member of the Sigma Chi social fraternity, was chosen captain of the 1932 Wildcats, to succeed Ralph "Babe" Wright. George Skinner, Lexington, son of Prof. Charles Skinner, principal of Lexington High school, junior in the College of Arts and Sciences and member of Delta Tau Delta social fraternity, was chosen alternate captain to succeed John S. "Shipwreck" Kelly. Last year Skinner was awarded the Gamage cup, annually given to the athlete attaining the highest scholastic average in the university. The elections were held Wednesday night at the annual football banquet given by the Athletic council in honor of the Wildcat squad. The 21 letter men, who received awards for the year's gridiron efforts at the banquet, selected the men who will direct the 1932 edition of the Kentucky football team.

Christmas Plays Adapted from Themes Written in 14th Century

The annual Christmas pageant, to be given by the Y.W.C.A. and the Y.M.C.A. of the university at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, in Memorial hall, will be adapted from three old York mystery plays dating back to the 14th or 15th centuries. The presentation, directed by Marion Galloway, will follow the old English form as closely as possible, with only such modernization of language as will be required to make it comprehensible.

The history of the plays takes one back to the early middle ages, when the clergy conceived the idea of acting out scenes from biblical history at mass. Later these dramatizations became so popular that they were presented on the church porch so that more people might attend. For a long time the acting was done only by the priests. The people, however, showed great preference for the comic scenes and in time the priests gave the dramatization over to the townspeople entirely.

The plays were given in the town of York on Corpus Christi day, the Thursday following the ninth Sunday after Easter. Each trade guild in the town contributed to the production, furnishing the actors and wagons in which it was performed, and financing it. The city officials supervised it, selecting the most capable actors. The parts of the town desiring presentation were required to petition for the performance.

There was a different set of actors for each act of the play, which was given on a wagon improvised for a stage. The first act was begun at 4:30 o'clock in the morning. When it was finished at the first station, the wagon moved on to give the second performance at the next station en route, while the second act was presented at the first place. Thus the plays went the round of the city. This custom was begun about 1350 and was finally given up about 1590.

The pageant which the Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. will give is taken from plays from the "Til-Thaters", the Chancellors, and the Goldsmiths' guilds. The story begins with the entrance of Mary and Joseph into Bethlehem on the Eve of the birth of Christ and ends with the adoration of the Wise Men. This quaint story of the nativity will be presented almost as those Yorkish men saw it five hundred years ago.

The cast of characters is: Mary, Helen Dannemiller; Joseph, James Boucher; First Shepherd, Mason McIntosh; Second Shepherd, Armer Mahan; Third Shepherd, Elizabeth Montague; First King, Robert Stewart; Second King, Trusett Miller; Third King, John St. John; Herod, Marvin Johnson; Wife, Carol Gilley; Counsellor, John Carter; Maid, Margaret Brown; Jerusalemites, Cora England, Sally Ware, Alice Mae Durling, Betty (Continued on Page Four)

W. S. G. A. TO GIVE DANCE

The Women's Self-Government association will give its annual tea dance from four to 6 o'clock Friday afternoon in the recreation room of Patterson hall. The Blue and White orchestra will furnish the music, and every woman student is invited to attend.

Modern Prints Being Shown at Art CenterWorks from New York Galleries will be Exhibited
Until December 24

Modern prints, representing recent works of contemporary American artists are showing now at the Art center. The exhibition, opening today and continuing until December 24, includes etchings, aquatints, lithographs, and woodcuts.

The prints from the Weyhe and Downtown galleries, New York, have been brought to the university through the cooperation of the Cincinnati art museum. These galleries, according to Prof. Edward W. Rannels, head of the department of art, have one of the finest selections of modern prints in the country.

Among the artists whose works are represented are Peggy Bacon, Howard Cook, Emil Ganso, Rockwell Kent, Clemente Orozco, Henri Matisse, and Pablo Picasso. Art center galleries are open from 8 to 5 o'clock week days and from 2 to 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. During the course of the exhibition the galleries will be open Friday nights at 7 o'clock when Professor Rannels will discuss the prints.

University Band And Pershing Rifles Are In Inaugural Parade

The university band and Company C, first regiment of Pershing Rifles, at the request of the Fayette county Young Men's Democratic club through Earl M. McGuffey, Lexington attorney and marshal of Fayette county's delegation to the inauguration of the recently elected county executives, took part in the inaugural parade Tuesday morning at Frankfort.

The members of the local unit of Pershing Rifles gathered at the Armory at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning to march to the Kentucky Traction and Terminal station, where they joined the band; the Man O' War post No. 8, American Legion, drum and bugle corps; and other marching clubs of the county.

The parade, which lasted more than two hours, formed on the south side of Mero street, facing Ann street at 11 o'clock, took its way down the hill, across the bridge, and up Capitol avenue past the reviewing stand, from which Governor-elect Ruby Laffoon viewed the exhibition. The Fayette county delegation was in the second section of the fifth division.

CHEMISTS HEAR
TALK ON DRUGSH. A. Shonle, Indianapolis, Speaks at 155th Meeting of Lexington Section of American Chemical Society.

The 155th meeting of the Lexington section of the American Chemical society was held at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in room 201 of Kastle hall. The speaker was H. A. Shonle of the research laboratories of the Eli Lilly company, Indianapolis, Indiana.

Mr. Shonle gave as the subject of his address "Some Recent Work in the Development of Synthetic Drugs," in which he stressed the ever-increasing requirements of the human body for drugs with which to combat diseases. He also discussed the development of antiseptics, saying that the ideal antiseptic is one which does not antagonize cell growth but one which inhibits bacterial growth. In developing local anesthetics, another phase of the speaker's address, a cue was taken from nature.

Mr. Shonle said that on the whole there is no new specific way to devise new drugs, but that many are fortuitous discoveries. Of all the new compounds synthesized as drugs, over 90 per cent have been proven to be useless, he concluded.

Kentucky Academy
Of Social Sciences
Will Hold Meeting

The Kentucky academy of social science will hold a meeting in the university commons at 6 o'clock tonight. Members will discuss the subject, "A Program for Kentucky." Approximately 300 invitations have been sent out to Kentuckians asking them to become members of the academy. Those receiving invitations are prominent professional men; college professors of history, economics, sociology, political science, and psychology, and several university and college students. Annual dues are one dollar.

The program of the academy for the coming year includes continuation and extension of the newspaper releases; occasional program meetings to be held chiefly at the university; consideration of a political program to be presented before the next legislature; and canvassing of the possibility of extending the usefulness of the academy.

Plans are Arranged
For Commencement

Plans for mid-year commencement exercises which will probably be held the week beginning January 24, are being formulated and will include for the first time, a baccalaureate sermon for the class being graduated in January. Following the custom inaugurated last year, the committee in charge of arrangements will probably select a member of the faculty of the university to deliver the commencement address.

A meeting of the committee in charge of arrangements is to be held within the next week and definite plans will be announced later. Members of the committee are: Prof. M. E. Ligon, chairman; Prof. W. L. Roberts, law school; Prof. E. R. Gillis, registrar; Prof. Brinkley Barnett, College of Engineering; Sarah G. Blanding, dean of women; Mrs. Eda M. Giles, Boyd hall; Major Meredith, military department; Miss Flora LeSturgeon, mathematics department; Prof. R. D. McIntyre, College of Commerce.

WILDCATS ELECT
O. L. DAVIDSON TO GRID CAPTAINCYTwenty-One Letter Men Select Sophomore to Lead 1932 TeamGEORGE SKINNER IS ALTERNATE CAPTAINChoices Made at Annual Football Banquet at Phoenix Hotel

Twenty-one football players, who received awards for their gridiron efforts this year, elected O. L. Davidson, sophomore guard from Evansville, Ind., and George Skinner, junior end of Lexington, as captain and alternate captain of the 1932 football team at the annual football banquet held Wednesday night in the Phoenix hotel.

A sophomore for the grid captaincy is an unusual thing, and it speaks well for the popularity of the heavy guard from the Hoosier state. His consistent playing for nearly 60 minutes of every game during the past season won for him the admiration of his fellow team mates. George Skinner, a product of Henry Clay High school and John Heber, has played his second season for the Blue. While not naturally a football player, his heady work has placed him on the first string and merited him the votes of his mates.

Wednesday's banquet is said to have been the most successful held in honor of the football team, although fewer than 25 townspeople turned out. Members of both varsity and freshmen squads together with sports writers, were guests of the Athletic council.

Judge Richard C. Stoll, university alumnus and star of a Kentucky football team of the '90's, was master of ceremonies. In his opening remarks he stated that this year's team is the greatest Kentucky has had since the years he played.

The first speaker was Pres. Frank L. McVey, who said that he had hoped that this would be one affair at which he would not be called upon to speak, for he feared that persons about the university heard from him entirely too often. He continued by saying that football is an important part of the university and that he was grateful for the services rendered by the players. "Your class room work has been equal to the work of the average student, and that is an achievement you may be well proud of considering the time you spend in developing yourselves for the sport."

Gold footballs were then presented to the 10 seniors by Bernie Shively, line coach. As each departing senior rose to receive his award he was given a big hand by the banqueters.

Coach Harry Gamage, in his speech, reviewed the past season and complimented the work of each player. He expressed his gratitude for the way the team worked throughout the season in spite of the criticism he had received. Captain Wright, according to Gamage, was the finest leader he has had worked with since he has been coaching. Winners of the letter and numerical awards were announced and presented by "Daddy" Boles. The winners were decided by the council just before the banquet. The list follows:

Varsity—Kenneth Andrews, U. T. Duff, O. L. Davidson, Darrel Darby, Frank Gibson, Ellis Johnson, John S. Kelly, Howard Kreuter, Ralph Kercheval, Robert Kipping, William Luther, Robert Montgomery, Richard Richards, George Skinner, Frank Seale, Ralph Wright, M. J. Cavanaugh, Jack Phipps, Cecil Urbanak, George Yates and Manager Duke Johnson.

Omer, R. Euper, R. S. Riley, C. Sparks, P. Saunders, C. Arnold, R. F. Ferhman, W. B. Hunt, M. Knight J. J. Rosenberg and H. Walker.

Varsity Football Team
Will Be Entertained

A dinner dance in the night club style will be held in honor of the varsity football players with members of SuKky Circle, university pep organization acting as hosts, at 6:30 o'clock Friday night in the Palm room of the Phoenix hotel.

Jimmy Gatewood's Kentucky Kernels, a six-piece dance orchestra, will furnish music for the affair, and Ted Cassidy, SuKky president, will have charge of ceremonies.

All members of the Wildcat team, and the varsity coaches and their wives are invited to attend, and members of the SuKky organization and their dates will be present. Chaperones are to be Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gamage, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard A. Shively, John R. Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gill.

Arrangements for the banquet are being made under the direction of Mary Elizabeth Fisher and William Hubbe.

CATHOLIC CLUB TO MEET

Pres. Frank L. McVey will be the principal speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Catholic club of the university, which will be held at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning at the Lafayette hotel.

STUDENT DRINKING

The question of drinking by university students is now one of much less importance than it has been in recent years, and this declining prominence of the liquor question has been brought about by a decline in student drinking.

Graduates of many years ago recount stories of the drink orgies which formerly took place at the university, and many of them cannot understand why the present student seems to enjoy his school life without a superabundance of intoxicating liquors. It is our belief that this decline has been brought about by a more intelligent attitude on the part of the student body as a whole, and the fact that the novelty of breaking the law is becoming unentertaining.

It is no longer considered smart to drink at university functions, and the student who formerly attended every entertainment with a bottle is now regarded as the sort who lacks either the intelligence or the cultural attainments to enjoy himself without the aid of whiskey. The number of consistent drinkers has so decreased that they can gather in a small, independent group, which is more or less separated from the remainder of the student body.

The Kernel believes that the present favorable situation is not due to the law which was intended to bring it about, and that had the law not been passed drinking would at present be even rarer in student circles than it is.

The university has strict drink regulations which are enforced by the Men's Student Council of the university, but cases requiring the enforcement of these regulations are becoming rarer and rarer. A case of student intoxication has not come before the council this semester, and not more than half a dozen cases were brought before the body last year. Like the national regulation governing drinking, however, the university rules are not responsible for the present decline.

Students, like other persons, are motivated by their own beliefs more than by the dictates of authorities, and the belief that drinking has nothing to commend itself cannot but be held responsible for the present attitude toward it.

ATTITUDES

When students go home for the holidays they often take with them an attitude with which their families are unfamiliar. Someone makes the remark that they have changed, that they are not the same unassuming persons they were before they attended college. This is an unhappy situation for everyone concerned, and the students themselves are the ones who must guard against it.

Naturally one feels somewhat elevated after spending several months at an institution of higher learning, but this feeling should be one of confidence, not superiority. The student should not refer often to his life in college unless he has listeners who are interested and who evidence their interest. He should not recount his achievements during the last semester, nor seek to impress on his home town friends his position on the campus. It means nothing to them, and cannot but be construed by them as conceit.

Families who probably have made sacrifices to send their children to school naturally regret any factor of school which tends to make their children other than what they would have been had they remained entirely under the influence of the home, unless these changes are congruous with the desires of the family. Changes must occur in every person, but those changes of which families do not approve may be effectively concealed. This concealment does not mean that the student who has adopted unwise habits should continue in them without the knowledge of his family; it only means that language and other usages, slang, and other characteristics which the student has adopted at the university and which annoy his family need not be brought to light.

In the majority of cases, however, the student would be wiser to correct any traits which his family finds disagreeable. But it is seldom that we can expect the student to believe that there is anyone wiser than himself.

GLOWING LAMPS

Warm a heart already soft
With a touch of love within—

POSTPONEMENT

Oh, the fringe of adventure is calling.

And we long to answer its call,
Somewhere are dynasties falling,
But here in this gossiping small town,
Where the trollops are talking

Over the back yard fence.
Every thing seems to be mocking
The lure of the far immense.

Oh, the fringe of adventure is calling.

And we fain would answer its call,
But we linger like cattle for stalling.

We just cannot make it... that's all!

WISDOM

I would not take the toll of all your summers.

This brief sweet spring is all I dare to ask;

I could not see your restless eyes go roaming.

While you make gay behind a painted mask.

So you may go... I have another lover.

I see myself when I look in his eyes.

And yours had only depths of purple oceans.

And rhyming winds and star-blown black of skies.

Run quickly then, hands deep in empty pockets.

I shall choose wealth... dreams are an empty fear.

The other lad has coins for golden spending—

Love never lasts—you taught me that my dear!

Southern Educators Hear Three U. of K. Professors Speak

Three members of the university faculty, Dean P. P. Boyd, Prof. M. E. Ligon, and Prof. Ezra R. Gillis, were speakers on the program at the annual meeting of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of Southern States, held in Montgomery, Alabama, November 30 to December 4.

The first three days of the convention were given over to considering applications for memberships and to reports. Wednesday, Dean Boyd spoke on "Standards," Professor Ligon, chairman of the Commission of Secondary Schools, made a report based on "Study of Preparation of High School Teachers in Subjects Which They Teach." Professor Gillis discussed "The Influence of Sex on Grading and Practice of Various Colleges in Accepting Unsatisfactory Grades."

The association includes as members, schools in 11 of the southern states and has a membership in Kentucky of 130 secondary schools and approximately 12 colleges, including the university. The purpose of the association is to act as a standardizing body and to maintain a high type of instruction in member schools.

The next annual meeting of the convention will be held in December, 19, at Duke University, Durham, North Carolina. The president selected to serve next year is Prof. Joseph Rodmer, a graduate of the university in 1914 and now head of the training school and junior college at Peabody College.

Cosmopolitan Club Will Meet Tonight

The December meeting of the Cosmopolitan club, university organization for foreign students, will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Maxwell Place. President and Mrs. McVey entertain the group each year.

The program will consist of selections of Roumanian music. The music will be furnished by T. T. Nedelkoff, who will give selections on the violin, and Olga Avramova, who will sing. Miss Avramova is a student at Asbury College, Wilmore.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the meeting is headed by Alice Mae Durling. Nick Chepeleff is president of the organization and Mildred Neal is secretary.

Seventy-nine students of the University of Kansas participated in 318 programs broadcast over the university's radio station last year. Eighteen different departments and schools were represented.

Social Science Group To Assemble Tonight

Program in University Commons will be in Form of Open Forum

The December meeting of the Kentucky Academy of Social Sciences will be held at the university commons at 6 o'clock tonight. A dinner will precede the business meeting.

The program will be in the form of an open forum on the question, "What measures should the academy advocate for the betterment of the government of Kentucky?" Among those who are expected to take part in the discussion are Leland W. Meyer, Georgetown; Charles W. Williams, Louisville; Clarence M. Dannelly, Winchester; Carlisle Minor, Danville; Charles J. Turk, Danville; Alvin E. Evans, Lexington, and James W. Martin, Lexington.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

We (the undersigned) petition that the following matters be attended to for our convenience as we feel that we should have every consideration in every matter.

We righteously believe that the local theatres should be dark during the Christmas holidays so that we (the undersigned) will not miss a single production, as we feel that it is to our interest and to the interest of the entire student body, in fact, to the interest of the entire world that we attend all films either for our own edification, for the benefit of our column in that most illustrious sheet, The Kentucky Kernel, and for our own personal pleasure.

We believe that the aforesaid houses should take more precaution in the future as to their booking so that all houses will not be running excellent pictures at the same time, in this way throwing consternation into the Roamers as to which showing to grace with our pleasure first. Also we believe that they should show us the consideration of not running poor pictures in every house in town in order to bore our combo to the point of falling into the clutches of that great god Morpheus.

We believe that a limousine should be provided for our personal convenience by the theatre managers and that said limousine should be fully equipped and should include the services of a chauffeur.

We believe that every one in this fair city appreciates us from having read our literary work (?-editor's note) for this journal and should show their appreciation by opening

We believe that we should be forgiven for indulging in satire, poor as it may be, and we sincerely believe that should all our requests be granted, The Kentucky Kernel would no longer have a dramatic editor and someone would be compelled to stand the price of a tombstone.

The Ben Ali is scheduled to present Saturday "Possessed," a Metro film, which Time calls just another example of "legal prostitution." Joan Crawford is cast with that male metorite, Clark Gable, in a modern production with a background of gorgeous Hollywood sets. In "Possessed" we find Miss Crawford as a factory girl desiring to climb the social staircase, and the gentleman a refined member of the charmed circle.

—RR—

"Over the Hill," which will open Saturday at the Kentucky, is a new dramatization of a story which has been a favorite with producers and playgoers for years. It is a touching story which never grows truly old. James Dunn will play in the production, and those who enjoyed his work in "Bad Girl" and "Sob Sister" undoubtedly will not allow themselves to miss this flicker. Sally Eilers, also of "Bad Girl", plays opposite James Dunn in "Over the Hill". Mae March is featured prominently.

The Strand, in its economy month, will bring back Ann Harding's film, "Devotion", recently shown at that theatre. Looking back to the first occasion on which we viewed this motion picture, we recall that it was a very enjoyable production.

Problem: how to answer a million a day

Users of Bell System service ask "Information" more than 1,000,000 questions every day. Providing facilities for answering them promptly, correctly, was one problem put up to engineers of the Bell System.

So effective was their solution that this prodigious task is now a matter of smooth routine. They designed desks which enable each operator to reach quickly the listings of some 15,500,000 telephones. They developed apparatus which automatically routes calls to operators not busy—and should all operators be busy at once, it stores up calls and releases them in the order received!

Efficient telephone service depends upon working out interesting problems like this.

University High Netmen To Play Linlee Hi Today

The Purple clad netmen of University high school will open their basketball season with a game on the training school floor tonight with the Linlee high five. The Purples, though less experienced this season than their rivals, are expected to win by virtue of their two wins over the Fayette countians last season.

Three of the veterans of last year's great purple squadron are back in the fold and the coach is building his team around these men:
Fisher, center, and Little and Hillard, forwards. From the 26 candidates the Purple mentor has selected Olney and Longley to fill the guard posts vacated by Kemper Glass and "Sonnie" Bishop. Although the county team has played five times this year they have been defeated three times, bowing to Clark County high, Delta Tau Delta, and Stamping Ground. A victory over University high would be a great feat for the grey and blue team and Coach Bill Trotter is pepping up his lads for the contest.

This game marked the first game of the season both for the training school boys and the city of Lexington so far as high school games are concerned.

The following have reported for basketball at University high: Hillard, Demistion, Longley, Fisher, Elder, Olney, Brooking, R. Olney, Irvine, Wiederman, Bishop, Mil-
ward, Guy, Wachs, Ligon, Mohney, Kilpatrick, Charles Randall, Little,
Ferguson, Leggett, Walton, Jacoby,

YATES, INJURED, WILL NOT PLAY UNTIL JANUARY

"Frenchy" DeMoisey Will Sub in All-Southern Center's Place

SALE IS INJURED

By JOHN ST. JOHN

Because of an injured shoulder,
George Yates, all-Southern center, will not be able to return to the basketball squad until after the first of next year, it was announced by Coach Adolph Rupp yesterday.
This is the first serious blow to fall on the hard working Rupp squad.

Yates injured some muscles in his shoulder during the football game with the University of Tennessee and so far they have been very slow in responding to treatment.

All ready to step into the position of Yates, is "Frenchy" De Moisey, six foot four inch sophomore, who in scrimmage has shown some of the best playing of the season.
Back and forth, from one end of the floor to the other, picking shots off both backboards, "Frenchy" has shown unexpected ability and although he lacks the finesse of Yates, he will be an able substitute.

Misfortune visited the basketball-ers Thursday afternoon when Sale, lanky forward, turned his ankle, causing him to retire from the floor in favor of a dose of heat applications administered by the trainer. He will be out of uniform for several days pending reduction of the swelling. As he has not had trouble with the ankle before, it is expected that it will come around in good shape in time for the Carnegie Tech game.

In a 40 minute scrimmage with the freshman team Wednesday, Coach Rupp's squad showed all the speed, cleverness and accuracy of last year's almost-championship team. The yearlings were unable to cope with the height and speed of the varsity squad.

The varsity squad showed a clever offense with the Rupp plays working almost to perfection. The fumbling which was apparent in the squad since the start of the season has worn off and the men are now handling the ball easily and naturally. The Wildcat defense so far lives up completely to the past Kentucky teams and will have much to do with the success of the team this year.

Five members of the football squad reported to Coach Rupp for the first time last week and have been working out with the squad every day. Worthington, guard, gained 20 pounds during the football season and is having his hands full trying to get back to normal weight before the basketball season opens next week.

"Owing to the fact that there is a lot of interest in basketball among the student body and that many requests have been received to see a varsity practice, I am going to cede to their requests and throw the Saturday afternoon practice, which begins at 2 o'clock, open to the public. All spectators should be in the west bleachers and are expected to remain quiet in order not to interfere with the practice," Coach Rupp announced yesterday.

The varsity will scrimmage the freshmen for the second time this year at this open practice and are expected to find more opposition than they did Wednesday.

Intramural

By NORBERT CAMPBELL

The winter Intramural program got off to a poor start Tuesday night in the gym annex with only four of the scheduled 16 boxing bouts being fought, but as far as action and good bouts were concerned the fans were treated to a good show. Twelve of the 16 bouts that were scheduled to come off were forfeited because in each of the 12 remaining bouts one of the contestants failed to show up. This gave some of the boys easy sailing into the second round, where they will meet some tough opposition. The first bout of the evening was in the 145 pound class, with Nelson and Barker in the principal roles. The bout was awarded to Barker when Nelson forfeited after three rounds of fast and furious battling. Nelson started out like a whirlwind and took the first round scoring two knockdowns and landing repeatedly with stiff jolts to the head and body. But he weakened in the last two rounds and was in bad shape as the bout ended. The judges thought that the bout was a draw and called for an extra round. Nelson was in no shape to finish the extra round and forfeited to Barker. The bout did not end in a technical knockout as some of the fans were led to believe, because Nelson was still on his feet at the end of the third round. Had he left his corner and started the fourth round, then forfeited, the bout would have ended in a technical knockout for Barker.

Next up on the evening's program was the 115 pound class, with Hinman and Mumford pitted against each other. This bout furnished the action of the card, as the two small lads went at top speed throughout the three rounds. Hinman was awarded the judges' decision. He got off to a bad start in the first round, and ran into some stiff rights and lefts that had him worried. This round was even. Mumford tired fast in the last two rounds, especially in the second, and allowed Hinman to take this round. In the third round Hinman carried the fight to his opponent, and had him hanging on at the end of the round.

Allais and Lysowski, fighting in the 155 pound division furnished the action for the third bout on the evening's card. Lysowski was easily the winner in this bout. He is a cool, heady fighter with a poisonous left jab, and a good right hand jolt. The first round of this fight was about even, with both boys fighting cautiously. In the second round, Lysowski kept scoring with his left, and landed numerous rights to the chin and face to take the round. With 25 seconds to go in the third round, Allais' second tossed the towel into the ring and the referee awarded the bout to Lysowski. In this round, Lysowski kept leading and scoring with his left, and then followed up with stiff right upper cuts to the chin. It was apparent at the ringside that Allais was in bad shape as he staggered around the ring at Lysowski's mercy. One or two more heavy blows would have sent him down to the count.

The last bout of the evening was Engle vs. Dawson, fighting at 165 pounds. Engle won handily, carrying the fight to Dawson, who could do no better than fight on the defensive for the three rounds that he was in the ring. Both boys fought rather cautiously in the first round, sparring round for an opening and taking things easy. Engle landed several jolting blows to the body and face in this round. It was only Dawson's defensive tactics that saved him from being on the receiving end of several of Engle's knockout "drops."
